

Dear Minister,

I respectfully urge the authorities to ensure adequate health care for all refugees and asylum seekers suffering injuries and trauma. Where adequate health care cannot be provided in Papua New Guinea, the Australian government should immediately evacuate refugees and asylum seekers to Australia for treatment.

I further urge the authorities to fully co-operate in independent investigations into the deaths of six refugees and asylum seekers and to promptly update family members on the progress and outcome of such investigations.

I strongly urge the authorities to immediately bring refugees to Australia and to ensure all those granted refugee status have the right to settle in Australia or third countries.

Sincerely yours,
